

Valley court hub okayed

By PAT WIDDER

PLEASANTON — Recognizing the economic impacts have yet to be studied, the city council voted 4 to 1 Monday night to endorse a Sunol Boulevard location for the valley government center.

That location, which is near the existing civic center site, was chosen as the best possible plan by Alameda County staff and consultants. They studied 10 possible valley locations.

The valley government center would eventually house a court building, a public services auditorium, an administration building and pre-trial detention facilities, and would require some 400 employees. The county would require a minimum of 20 acres for the valley center.

In explaining why they chose the Sunol Boulevard site over others that either are already owned by the county or are more centrally located, Robert Ratcliff of the architectural firm of Ratcliff, Slama and Caldwell said, "We already have two government centers in the valley, one in Pleasanton and one in Livermore. We didn't think it made sense to add a third."

He added a site at the west end of the valley would be closer to the population center of the area and would also be more centrally located to other county services. In addition, Ratcliff noted the Sunol Boulevard site has good freeway access, would be close to an eventual BART station and would be a part of a developing governmental complex. (The area houses local school district offices in addition to city offices.)

Mayor Floyd Mori said he favored the site because it follows "the concept of our general plan to develop like uses in like areas."

Councilman Bill Herlihy was the sole opponent to the motion. "I think this might create problems for Pleasanton," he said. "It has limited access," referring to traffic from Dublin and Livermore, and "boxes us in. The county puts a building in there, then we have problems to solve. I think we ought to solve the problems before we make a commitment."

The city's staff recommended an endorsement of the county report and that view was upheld by the other four council members.

"I think this would be very desirable for Pleasanton," said Councilman Ed Kinney, while Councilman Bob Philcox added, "the benefits to Pleasanton are quite obvious. I have to support it wholeheartedly. I think it would be a nice addition to Pleasanton and to the civic center site."

The board of supervisors will hold a public hearing on the proposed location at 2:30 p.m. Thursday in Oakland. That hearing will be the first of many on the issue of where the government center should be constructed.

Last rites set for school administrator

PLEASANTON — A rosary service this evening at 7:30 and a funeral mass Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. will mark the community's final tribute to Thomas S. Hart. Mr. Hart passed away on Monday as the result of a cancer for which had been treated since last June. He was 49.

Coming to Pleasanton Elementary School as a teacher in 1950, Mr. Hart served as vice principal of that school from 1953 to 1954, and as principal from 1954 to 1969, except for a stint as principal of Alisal Elementary School in 1958. In the summer of 1969 he was appointed director of personnel for both the Pleasanton Elementary and Amador Valley High School districts. Two years later he was named Acting Superintendent in the interim between the retirement of Dr. Ray Haskell, and the hiring of Rudy Gatti as district superintendent in February of 1972.

Mr. Hart subsequently was named Assistant Superintendent for Personnel and this past year was appointed Assistant Superintendent for Educational Services.

Born in Oakland, Mr. Hart graduated St. Mary's High School in that city, and obtained his BA degree from St. Mary's College in Moraga. He attended UC Berkeley for his master's degree.

He is survived by his wife, Mary, and seven children: Mary, 22; Mike, Michael, 20; James, 19; Dennis, 17; Kevin, 16; Steven, 14; and Kathleen, 12. Also surviving is his mother, Rose Katherine Hart of Oakland, and two sisters, Elizabeth Bucci of Daly City and Catherine Monahan of San Leandro.

Mr. Hart is credited with many contributions to the needs of education and young people throughout the Amador Valley, and was among the founders of the Twin Valley Counseling Program. His longtime friend and associate, Neil Sweeney, director of Secondary Education for the local school systems, observed that "Tom probably made a greater contribution to the schools in this community than any other single person." Flags at all local schools were flown at half mast beginning Monday and through Thursday.

(For a personal reflection on Tom Hart's service to this community, please turn to Round the Town column on page 4.)

Friends are invited to offer spiritual bouquets in Mr. Hart's memory, or make contributions to the Tom Hart Memorial Fund, care of the First National Bank of Pleasanton.

Both the tonight's rosary and Wednesday evening's special Mass will be held at St. Augustine's Church. Private burial rites are scheduled for Thursday. Graham - Hitch Mortuary is in charge of the rites. Friends may call at the mortuary 675 St. John Street Tuesday and Wednesday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Trustees eye 74-75 budget

PLEASANTON — A report on the 1974 - 75 budget heads the agenda of the Amador Valley Joint Union High School District tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Educational Center board room.

Following the budget report, trustees will hear a report on Amador High School. The Vocational Education Review Team will announce their findings and the board will also hear reports on the Graduation Task Force and the state testing program.

Two proposed policies will be read and offered for public criticism. One is in exemption from physical education classes and the other on damages claims.

Following comments from the audience and a report from the superintendent, the board will adjourn to closed session.

Health Center gets new director

PLEASANTON — A month overdue, the Pleasanton Health Care Center is about to get a new director.

After a series of women directors, the new chief is going to be a man. That's all Health Care Center members are willing to say until written confirmation of the appointment comes through, probably in a day or two.

The board of the county-funded, locally-run center set themselves a Dec. 15 deadline for having a new director on the job, following the firing of director Connie Webster in September. However, the salary for the position was listed as "open" in ads run in professional journals and newspapers, the requirements for the position were minimal, and the personnel committee found themselves flooded with applications and unable to meet the deadline.

The board met Friday in executive session to agree on the candidate proposed by the personnel committee. The director will be responsible for hiring and firing personnel, co-signing checks and overseeing the operation of the center, which is located on Railroad Avenue and ministers to the medical needs of low-income Valley residents with such services as pregnancy testing, food vouchers, physical checkups, examinations for the elderly, venereal disease treatment and baby clinics.

For the past few months, the center has been run by registered nurse Marge Hammer, who made herself responsible for catching up on record-keeping and for straightening out the workings of the center, which were being scrutinized by county investigators. During her tenure, the center received more business than ever before, no further complaints were raised and the county indicated at least preliminary approval of the center.

Ms. Hammer had applied for the permanent position, amid some criticism because she had sat on the board that fired Connie Webster, whose job she temporarily held. However, she has bowed out of the competition to take a half-time job as clinic manager of the Family Health Care Center of Dublin - San Ramon. Somewhat different from the Pleasanton operation, the West Valley center is operated by Valley Memorial Hospital for private patients. It will be the first time that center, open a year, has had a manager.

Planners to investigate '67 Hayward annexation

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — Alameda County Planning Commission Monday agreed to probe de-annexation of a strip of City of Hayward land that dips over the Pleasanton Ridge.

Commissioners in response to a study they requested Dec. 2 tentatively agreed there was no immediate probability of the 5.75 acres of land being developed.

Planners cite lack of services in the area bisected by Santos Ranch Road, the access built by Danville developer Harlan Geldermann to serve a now defunct subdivision plan.

"The road is unacceptable for anything except emergency vehicles," county planning director William Fraley told the board.

The road, reaching some 4000 feet up the ridge has a grade of 20 per cent, he said.

Fraley in his report to the commission said the land was annexed to the City of Hayward in 1967. "This area was annexed to Hayward before changes in attitude regarding the environmental consequences to the wide-spread use of septic tanks," the report said.

"In 1965 when the land was still unincorporated, Geldermann proposed a 123 lot rural subdivision on Pleasanton Ridge to be served by Santos Ranch Road. The average sized lot was to be two acres and no public sewers were to be provided. The county refused to approve this development unless public sewers were to be provided," the report said.

The land was later annexed to Hayward after Pleasanton declined to take the area into the city, the report adds.

The land was never developed because of the developer's financial difficulties, Fraley's report says.

"It is improbable that the city would approve such a subdivision today. The most recent plan adopted by the Hayward Planning Commission proposes the area east of Palomares Road for open space uses," the report concludes.

Fraley suggested the commission ask Hayward and the Local Agency Formation Commission to consider de-annexation of the land.

William Barte called in Dublin murder case

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — An Alameda County Superior Court judge Monday ordered the husband of Helga A. Barte subpoenaed to discover why he should not pay legal fees for his wife, the accused murderer of their two young children.

Superior Judge Lionel J. Wilson postponed arraignment scheduled Monday until Jan. 27 to allow time for investigations into the finances of the 36-year-old Dublin man.

The 32-year-old Helga Barte is charged by the Alameda County Grand Jury with the Dec. 6 slaying of her 6-year-old son Craig and one-year-old daughter Nicole.

The court was told Monday the Dublin housewife did not qualify for the services of a public defender which the court grants when the defendant is unable to pay private legal counsel.

Transported Monday morning from Napa State Hospital where she is being held, Barte agreed to waive her right to a trial within 60 days of the Jan. 9 indictment.

Appearing disoriented and wearing red knit slippers, a yellow muu-muu and a wrinkled beige sweater, Mrs. Barte told the court in a heavy German accent she would agree to extend her trial date.

Meanwhile, the German-born woman is without legal counsel.

William, Barte's husband, a cost analyst for Lucky Stores at its Dublin headquarters, petitioned for divorce Dec. 31 some eight years after the couple married in Ferndale, Mich.

The marriage dissolution papers show Barte's salary at $1538 monthly and the family home carrying an assessed value of $49,000.

Should attorneys request a psychiatric examination, examination, a city hearing could be scheduled on the Jan. 27 arraignment here.

Century House tour

Members of the Pleasanton Bicentennial Committee's executive council scheduled a Sunday afternoon tour of "Century House" as part of that committee's plan to aid the city in completing restoration of the historic dwelling by 1976. Ken Mercer brought four members of his executive board to join city department heads in that inspection tour, but after standing around for an hour in the cold wind "waiting for some one from city hall to show up with a key," the bicentennial bunch called the whole thing off. Century House is a 100-year-old dwelling located within a small city park on Santa Rita Road. Some $50,000 has already been spent in trying to bring that structure to effective community use.

WEATHER
Fair through today in the valley but with patchy late night and morning fog or low clouds. Variable high cloudiness Wednesday. Little temperature change. Lows tonight in the mid 30s to low 40s. Highs both days in the mid 50s to low 60s. Light winds.

Ford asks Congress for tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford proposed a $16-billion anti-recession tax cut Monday night, asking Congress to vote cash rebates of up to $1,000 for individual taxpayers.

Ford outlined a $46-billion economic and energy package in a nationally broadcast address, calling for higher taxes on oil and natural gas that experts said could increase retail gasoline prices by about a nickle a gallon.

As Ford was telling Americans "we are in trouble" with a deepening recession, White House officials were spelling out details of proposals he will present to Congress in his State of the Union message on Wednesday.

That address to Congress, the officials said, will call for permanent reductions in the tax rates for individuals, a cut from 48 per cent to 42 per cent in the corporate tax rate, a doubling of the low-income tax allowance and a $150 tax credit for homeowners who insulate their houses or take other energy-saving steps.

In his 20-minute television and radio address, Ford declared "we have no choice" but to put "our domestic house in order." The program he outlined to the public included these major points: —The immediate tax cut implemented by giving 12 per cent cash rebates, up to a maximum of $1,000 per tax return, to individuals based on their 1974 tax payments.

—Higher taxes on foreign and domestic oil, natural gas and windfall profits of oil producers, to bring in $30 billion, which would be returned to the economy under procedures Ford did not describe in detail in his speech.

—A one-year increase in the investment tax credit to 12 per cent, this giving industry a $4-billion tax break to spur plant expansion and create more jobs.

—A one-year moratorium on new federal spending programs to hold down the budget deficit, and a 5 per cent limit on increases in federal salaries and pension benefits paid from the U.S. Treasury

Correction

A letter written by Marian Hadly of Livermore and printed in The Times Friday said she had heard Parker's Steak House is "on the skids."

Jim Parker, owner of the restaurant, has assured us nothing could be further from the truth. He says business has suffered a little at his restaurant but that he expects it to improve considerably when the track relocation project of P Street is finished and eventually be better than ever.

Sewing instructor Snider Tom Jones inspired students

By JUDY JAVA

Fifty years ago, almost every woman could sew, from necessity if not from love of the craft. Today, women who sew, do so for a variety of reasons, according to Mercedes Snider, a Home Economics graduate who teaches sewing for Livermore Adult Evening High School.

"With the high cost of living, sewing can save half to two-thirds of the ready-made cost and the quality is better," she explained.

Snider has been teaching women to sew in day and evening classes for about five years. This quarter they're going to make all kinds of T-shirts and tops. "A lot of long dresses — expensive dresses — are nothing more than long T-shirts," she said. One good T-shirt pattern can provide the sewer with as many as 10 different dresses simply by altering the collar and the sleeves, according to the teacher.

Sewing class for adults gives mom a night away from home and provides her with some valuable consumer shopping information, according to Snider. "The price of fabrics is going up and patterns are also going up but you can save real money if you shop fabric sales," she cautioned.

Also, women fresh from sewing class can recognize a wellmade garment from a poor quality one when both are hanging side by side on the rack, the teacher continued.

For $4, the potential seamstress can enroll in half a dozen sewing classes ranging from beginning sewing (where they teach you to sew zippers, set in sleeves, and make collars) to an advanced tailoring class.

The classes are offered mornings and evenings, according to Snider.

Her class is slightly more advanced. "We're going to make knit golf shirts, tank tops, body suits and dress shirts for men and women," she said. "We're going to try to do what people are really interested in."

"I think one of the most common concerns they have is whether it will look good," the teacher explained. "But you can make everything in lingerie class," she promised.

Lingerie class is not only informative, sometimes it's pure fun. When super-star Tom Jones came to the Oakland Coliseum it gave one of Snider's students an idea. The teacher said the lady came in one night and said, "I wonder if I can make a size 46 triple 'D' bra to throw up on the stage?"

She said, "We never did make anything but we talked about it a lot."

The lingerie students are free to decide what they want to sew. "One lady made 125 pairs of briefs," the teacher recalled.

There's usually a pot of coffee brewing in the Home Economics department for the night students and the group life style

gathers around for an adult version of "show and tell" with everyone contributing ideas and inspiration.

"That's one of the good things about class," Snider added. "If you stay at home and make something that really looks great there's nobody to share it with... to show it to and gain some recognition."

Snider and the other teachers run their classes in 14 week quarters. The only cost to the students is the $4 enrollment fee and the price of their supplies.

For further information, call Livermore Adult Evening High School, 447-6671. The school is still accepting late enrollments, according to the teacher.

DEPRESSION ART "FOUND"

Public Offered 1937 U.S. Gov't Art Prints

A series of rare coincidences has led to the historic discovery of several thousand sets of full color antique art prints that were "lost since 1937." They are now being offered to the American public.

Eleanor Roosevelt

Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th centuries — Van Gogh, Gainsborough, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc., and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

Abandoned in 1937

For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

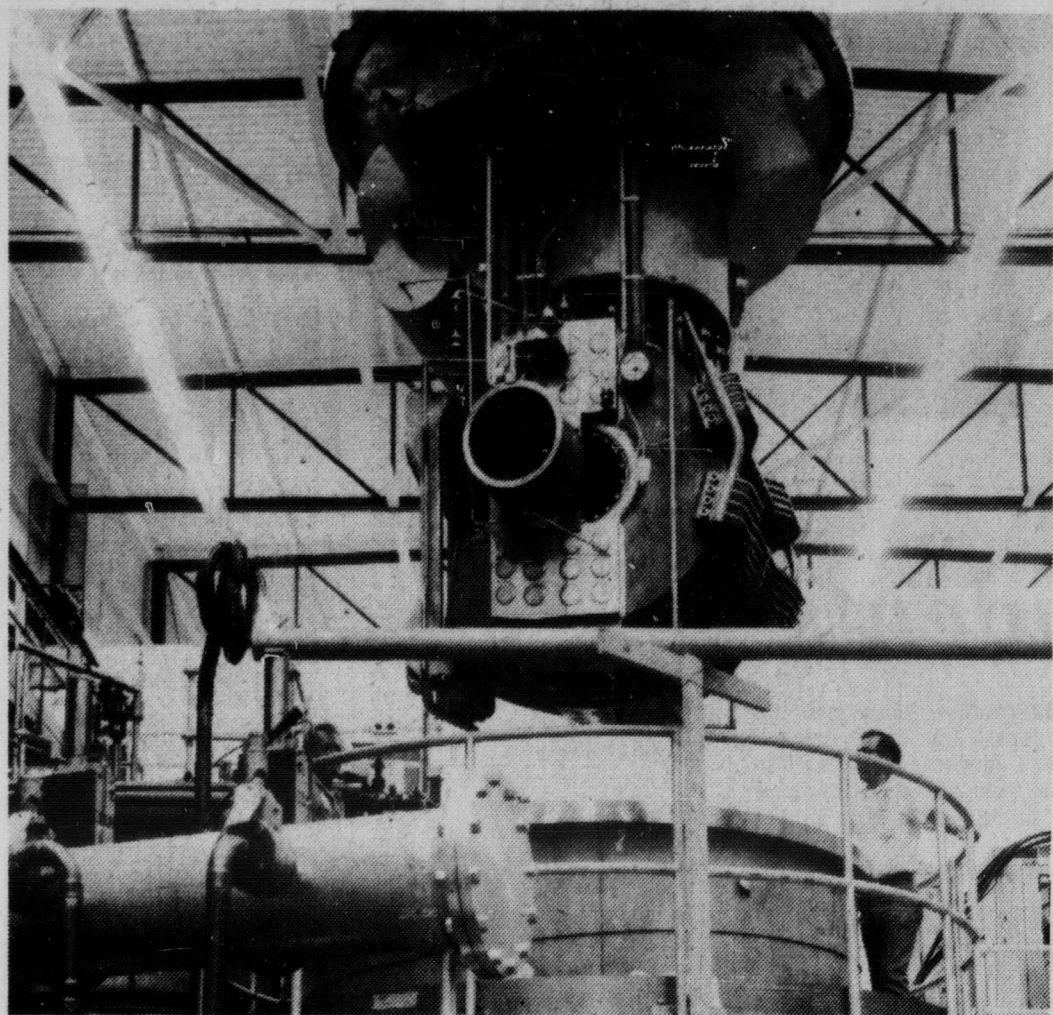

The lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agree that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction is incredibly accurate. Over $500,000.00 had been spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates.

These authentic original 1937 prints are literally collectors' items and have been appraised by the American Appraisers Assoc. at $7.00 each print. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

Available to Public

Now, after 38 years these full color 11"x14" (ave. size) prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 18 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Surplus, Dept. G46, 18584 Ventura Bl., Tarzana, Ca. 91356. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Mastercharge and BankAmericard OK (give card number.)

Three years of frustration for fusion researchers at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory may go up in a puff of ammonia this spring.

Scientists who have been working on the Baseball II project, one of several pursuing the elusive goal of controlled nuclear fusion, feel they may have overcome one of the big stumbling blocks in their approach to the problem.

Baseball II is so named because it employs a massive magnet roughly in the shape of the stitches on a baseball. The shape of the magnetic field is so designed that it will contain a very hot gas, or plasma, at a very high density.

If that high density is combined with high levels of heat, fusion should result. Fusion is the combining of two atoms so that the very nature of the atoms changes. When that happens, energy is released.

The great advantage of fusion over fission which is the release of energy by splitting atoms into smaller atoms is that fusion produces negligible amounts of radioactivity and much more energy. Also, the base fuel for fusion is hydrogen, which is easily extracted from water, rather than the much rarer and more scarce elements like uranium or plutonium.

Baseball II's progress toward fusion had been momentarily halted by difficulties in having the plasma reach the proper density. It is necessary to pack 100,000,000,000 particles per cubic centimeter at a temperature of some 20,000,000 degrees for fusion to take place.

By use of a beam of neutrally-charged (that is, having no charge) particles pre-heated to the proper temperature, there was no difficulty in reaching the high temperatures required, but density was a problem.

Baseball II researchers were within a factor of five of the necessary plasma density simply by firing the beam into the magnet and allowing the gas to build up. However, plasma instabilities kept the proper density from being reached and it appeared that Baseball II's sister project, 2X-II, had a much greater chance of success.

However, the group, headed by Dr. Charles Damm, has come up with a new plan, employing lasers and a target pellet, that they feel will allow the plasma to get packed tightly enough for fusion to take place.

The new idea calls for a small pellet of ammonia to be propelled into the Baseball II magnetic field and then have it zapped by a pair of carbon dioxide laser beams. The energy of the lasers causes the pellet to explode into a very hot gas, which is contained by the magnetic field.

Then, the scientists plan to shoot the neutral beam of particles that will be the actual fuel for fusion into the target area, which already has a fairly high density due to the presence of the ammonia. The researchers feel that the addition of the ammonia plasma will eliminate the instability problems they encountered before and open the door to controlled nuclear fusion.

Although work has been going on this project since last summer, collection of the necessary equipment and refinement of some techniques will delay the first real experiments until late spring.

By then, that puff of ammonia could open the way to clean, cheap power in the next 15 years.

Round the town

We stood in the cluster of World War II buildings that served as the administration hub for Pleasanton Elementary School District, and we talked of the roles we had played in the past, and the demands made on us for the future.

"I miss being a school principal, and a teacher," Tom Hart said that day. "I miss the contact with the children, the excitement of mixing it up with them, day after day."

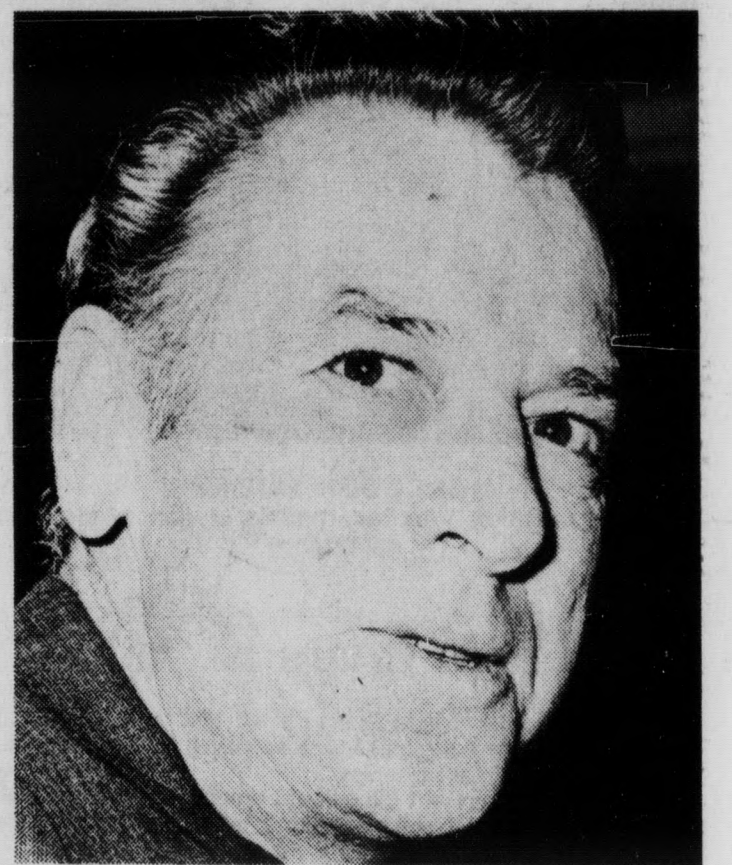

Tom had just been elevated to an administrative post with the Amador Valley and Pleasanton Elementary school districts. After some 20 years moving through the ranks of local education, it was a promotion richly deserved. But to look at this big, sad face, you would have thought Tom Hart had been demoted.

I had gone to the school offices that day in response to a typical Hart invitation. He was concerned about the impact of narcotics and cigarettes on grade school children. There was this new film, a documentary produced for possible distribution around the classrooms. It was hard hitting, wasting no words. Tom was torn between his duty to get this message to the children, and his concern for "sensitive parents" who might not appreciate the forthright manner used in that film.

As the story of this one troubled girl unfolded — she was no more than a seventh grader — Tom stubbed out the remains of that day's chain of cigarettes and said softly, "We have got to find a way to bring the message to these kids." It was a quest he would know until the day he died.

Only once can I recall having taken issue with Tom in the two decades that our careers of community servitude overlapped. Some students from Pleasanton Elementary, walking past our house on the way home from school, had wrecked part of my garden, for the umpteenth time. I wrote Tom a scathing note, suggesting that "if you lived in this town you might know your students better." While I quickly regretted sending that missive, still it apparently brought results. Tom and Mary Hart brought their family, and their loyalty, to Pleasanton not many months later. It was a move that would serve our town, and our children, very well indeed over the next 17 years. I like to believe that it profited the Hart family as well.

When we talked, it was rarely of policy or politics, but rather of a specific child's plight, of one family's great need. "When a seventh grader can look you right in the eye and tell you she wants to become a prostitute like her tenth grade sister, it can tear the heart right out of you," he once told me.

TOM HART

The confrontations of a quarter century had begun to take their toll. The eyes were a little heavier, the hair showing traces of grey. But Tom Hart was not a man who too often vented the turmoil that was deep within. He would simply light up a cigarette, and let the trouble drift away.

In 20 years of covering the community's school beat, I do not recall making a formal appointment with Tom Hart to sit down and talk about this new policy, or that old problem. It was more a matter of simply dropping in, to share a cup of coffee, or make use of a few spare minutes. Usually we wound up talking about "those other days and those other challenges."

The last time Tom and I "talked things over" was on just such a morning. I had gone to the old school district office on Main Street — on other business. Tom had a free moment. He bade me sit down, and talk a while.

As director of personnel, among his other duties, Tom Hart was in charge of negotiating with an army of certificated and non-certificated employees in two school systems in pursuit of new contracts, a wage package that the district could afford, but that would also somehow meet the "minimum demands" of the teachers, the custodians and the bus drivers. Of all the challenges he had to meet in his quarter century of service to this community, the role of negotiator was perhaps his heaviest cross.

"I grew up with these people, hired most of them, worked alongside them. I know their families, and a lot of their personal needs. I just can't suddenly become thick-skinned or objective when they start talking about what constitutes a living wage." Above all, Tom resented deeply the pressures that often spun off those negotiations and onto his family. Yet it was typical of the man that he never hid behind the unlisted telephone number as a shield from that verbal onslaught. As teacher, as school principal and as administrator, Thomas Hart was always one educator who could be reached, and who would listen. Above all, he never lost that deep sense of humility which seemed to dominate the strength within.

There was that day, a few months ago, when he was being suggested as District Superintendent to fill the vacancy in that two-district maze of some ten thousand students. The word was that "if Tom wants the job, it's his for the asking." But those closest to the man wondered if this final boost up the administrative ladder might not be the political test that he could not stomach. We had no doubt that the community would be well served. We simply did not want that service to be at the expense of this sensitive, gentle man.

But he left us, just the same. Taken by the cancer that ate at his lungs. Yielding finally to the pressures that were always with him, and to the one admitted "bad habit" to which he had turned, and then finally rejected in one last bid for the life he truly loved, and so well served.

Tom Hart was a dedicated teacher, a devoted husband and father, and a decent human being. He was also my friend, and for that I shall always be grateful.

Auxiliary pledges $112,000

During a regular meeting of the Valley Memorial Hospital Auxiliary on Monday at Hap's, the membership voted "to pledge $112,000 over a period of five years or less to the hospital for purchase of a non-medical service building. The pledge would cover the total cost of the building.

The 3,305 square foot building will house offices for the controller, chief assistant, billing, accounts payable, payroll, public relations, medical records and a meeting room exclusively for hospital use.

The building would have 12 sections and would fit in line with the hospital's plans in expanding to the south.

Room made available in the hospital through moving non-medical service to the new location would leave space for increasing the emergency room, cardiograph services, out patient facilities, enlarge the pharmacy and enlarge the out patient surgery services.

Following approval the plans by the City of Livermore, Andrews estimates the building could be up in approximately 70 days.

$500 fire Sunday

A total of $500 damage was sustained by a cottage on McGraw Road after a fire started in the bedroom and spread to the kitchen, according to the County Fire Department. The fire occurred at about 8 p.m. Sunday.

$20,000 accident at Livermore Airport

LIVERMORE — A total of $20,000 damage was sustained by three airplanes at the Livermore Municipal Airport early Sunday morning after one of the planes struck two parked planes while taxiing for takeoff.

County won't extend Wetmore

LIVERMORE — Alameda County does not plan to extend or realign Wetmore Road, the city has been told.

In response to an inquiry made by city Public Works Director Dan Lee, county Director of Public Works Herbert Crowle informed Livermore of plans in the Wetmore Road area.

The matter was initiated by Councilman Dale Turner, who received complaints from residents in the area regarding the use of Wetmore Road as an access street between East Vallecitos and Arroyo Road.

"CHILD OBSERVATION" GETS OFF TO GOOD START
Sam, Benjamin Handelman talk it over.

Child observation class will help parents adjust

DUBLIN — Is your two-year-old a nudist who eats dirt, knows no word but NO, no gesture but a belt in the stomach and no means of entertainment but grabbing vases off shelves?

Then, he's just like most toddlers of that age, if that's any consolation, says local teacher and mother Linda Ward.

Ms. Ward plans to share tips for dealing with preschoolers, and help parents enjoy their own children more, through a "child observation" course held Saturday mornings at Hill 'n' Dale Nursery at Camp Parks, off Dougherty Road.

The course begins 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 1, and runs to 11:30 a.m. Bring your own kid, if you have one; there will be plenty to entertain them and the course is centered around the "lab work." If childless, don't worry, there will be plenty to go around.

Registration is $4, children's play materials provided free. Signups are through the Amador Valley Adult Education School (462 - 1615) or in class Feb. 1.

The curriculum will include parent observations, group discussion, demonstrations, lectures and creative play. Toilet training, aggression, eating, sharing and negative behavior will be some of the subjects discussed. Children 16 months to three years old will be the focus of the course.

Ms. Ward holds a bachelor's degree in child development.

She directed play therapy at a children's hospital as well as teaching for seven years. But her ultimate qualification for teaching the course with understanding and sympathy: She has two children, aged 3 and 4.

Details may be obtained from Ms. Ward at 846 - 9622.

Stark joins local teacher with pleas to hire handicapped

LIVERMORE — Heart-rending pleas from a local teacher of the handicapped, Warren Thompson, have prompted Rep. Fortney (Pete) Stark to urge employers in the Livermore-Amador Valley to hire educationally handicapped students.

Stark endorsed the "Hire the Handicapped" program in response to a request from Thompson, who is coordinator of the Work Experience for the Handicapped program for the Livermore Unified School District.

"Every person in our society has a right to be trained to be useful to the maximum of his capabilities," Stark said in a news release.

"This program cannot work unless the community is willing to understand that special education students have as broad a range of abilities, interests and potential as other students," Stark added.

Thompson's job was recently re-evaluated and a continuing need was found for job placement for handicapped teenagers, who are usually placed in part-time work involving maintenance, clean-up or clerical responsibilities.

The Livermore teacher has found it difficult to place his students with local businesses. Anyone with a job for a handicapped student may phone him at 447 - 3330 weekdays.

Pleasanton federal fund meeting tonight

The City of Pleasanton has called a meeting to elicit suggestions regarding allocation of the city's $36,915 first year funding under the federal housing and community development act. The W. meeting will be held at Pleasanton Justice Court, 30 Angela St., at 7:30 p.m. today.

All citizens of Pleasanton are encouraged to attend and make suggestions regarding expenditures of the funds. Pleasanton is eligible for $221,536 in federal funding over the three year span of the act.

Two public hearings on the matter will be held at the Jan. 27, and Feb. 10, City Council meetings.

For Tuesday, Jan. 14, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You can rely on others to do as you direct but first you'll have to build a fire under them. A pep talk will do the trick.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
If you feel your work merits greater compensation, this is a good time to call this to the attention of your superiors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Much can be accomplished today if you arrange your schedule in its order of importance. Attack one problem at a time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Others are willing to share things of value. Don't look gift horses in the mouth. Be grateful for what's offered.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Agreements today will be long-lasting and benefit both parties equally, especially if one of the opposite sex is involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Don't be hesitant to mark-up the price tag for your skills or talents. The buyer will still get a bargain.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You're luckier than most today in situations that have elements of chance as a partial ingredient. Follow your hunches.

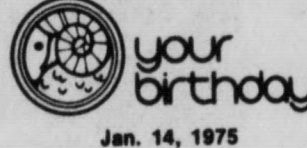

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Check your sources again to see if something you've been waiting for the house can now be gotten on better terms.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Several people you haven't heard from recently will be getting in touch shortly. An old relationship will be revived.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Something is developing in a rather mysterious and unique manner that will prove to be of profit to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Work closely today with the two people most able to assist with your present hopes. Don't wait for them to call you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Be sure to keep strictly to yourself anything told you now by a confidant who insists upon secrecy.

Two projects you'll be involved in this year will be financially rewarding if they are managed properly. Someone will be working from behind the scenes to help.

Four spades by North would be an ironclad contract, but North and South were not using transfer bids and South wound up as the spade declarer. West opened the 10 of hearts. South could have insured his contract by playing dummy's king but instead played small. East played the deuce of hearts, whereupon West shifted to the 10 of clubs. Dummy's jack lost to East's king. East cashed the ace of hearts and then made the mistake of leading a trump.

"Chucked and possibly rechecked," murmured South. "I should have put up the king of hearts at trick one." Then South won the spade; ruffed his last heart and ran off all his trumps. The last trump lead squeezed West. He had to discard a club in order to retain his ace of diamonds. Now South discarded the last diamond from dummy and made the last three tricks with dummy's ace-queen and six of clubs.

Warrior coach loves Loveday's return

By DAVE WEBER
The Tri-Valley Warriors' Western Basketball Association lead slipped to a single game over the weekend as they split a two-game, home-and-away series with the defending champion Stockton Golden Arches.

However, the Warriors still lead by two in the important loss column, due to a pair of byes a week ago after the semi-collapse of the San Mateo Suns. In addition the Valley club got good news on the personnel front.

Paul Loveday, the veteran 6-10 center, played his first game of the season Saturday, as the Warriors got it together in the early portions of the second half to beat Stockton, 116-102.

"Paul's gonna be the difference for us," said a happy John Phillips after the former University of California star had chipped in 10 points in his initial outing.

"We've been winning without Loveday and now we've got the threat of a big man. We're gonna be damn tough from now on," the Warrior coach explained.

"When the team was first organized, Paul was the man I wanted to build around," he concluded.

But Loveday, who starred for the Martinez Muirs after George Johnson made his triumphant ascent to the Golden State Warriors of the NBA, was far from impressed with his own debut.

Paul, who pulled a groin muscle six months ago and has not suited up since the exhibition season, complained, "I'm in terrible shape and it takes longer for a big man to get in condition."

Loveday added, "I don't have the feel of the ball yet and I'm still unintentionally favoring the injured spot."

"I'm also finding it hard to get warm and the building (the Fairgrounds Pavilion) is cold, adding to the problem," said Loveday, who wore a short-sleeved shirt under his sleeveless game uniform during Saturday's contest.

Willie Wise, the Warriors' windfall all - pro, missed his third consecutive game Sunday. The former Utah Star forward missed Tri-Valley's final game before the holiday break, reportedly due to an unavoidable prior engagement, and missed both of the Stockton games due to a case of the flu, according to Warrior officials.

Prior to Saturday's win, the Warriors filled the spot vacated by Mike Quick, who left for Europe and the International Basketball Association six weeks ago.

Tri-Valley signed Dwayne Read, a former Richmond High and Diablo Valley College guard, whose brother Robert currently performs for the Vikings.

Gaels, 1-1, try winless Wolves

Baffling Dublin High looks for its second win of the EBAL basketball season tonight at San Ramon.

Tipoff in Danville is set for 7:30.

In the only other league contest, Monte Vista, 2-0, faces Livermore, 0-1, in the Cowboys' gym.

The Mustangs can open up a full-game lead over idle Amador Valley in the standings with a win tonight.

Dublin can jump right back into the race, its record resting at 1-1, but the Gaels need a turn-around.

They played well down the stretch in their opening game with Granada a week ago, and won by six.

But Saturday night Dublin squandered opportunity in the final minutes and lost to Monte Vista, 44-39.

Dublin trailed by 10 after three quarters. Its pressing defense whittled that down to four points just a minute into the last period, but the Gaels drew no closer.

Dave Anderson led the team with eight points and Chuck Hatheway added six. Rayford Roberson, who scored 23 against Granada, was held to four points.

Dublin's opponent this evening, San Ramon, is 0-2 for the year. The Wolves dropped a 68-67 decision to Granada Friday.

The Wolves' Jim Hogeboom, Joe Fisher and Jim Kaldern will be targets for Dublin's pressing defense.

Livermore will seek renewed scoring punch from its two offensive keys tonight as it seeks an initial EBAL triumph. Forward Ed St. Clair and guard Joe Volponi were limited to 21 total points in an 86-58 loss to Amador Valley Friday. St. Clair fouled out in the third quarter. The other guard, Ted Wood, enjoyed a fine night with 12 points.

Dons hold third in prep poll

Amador Valley High held down its third place rating in the East Bay Prep Poll this week following an 86-58 thrashing of Livermore Friday night.

The defeat tumbled Livermore all the way to 15th in the ratings released today.

The first six teams remain the same this week with Oakland High topping the poll, followed by Oakland Tech, Amador, and Bishop O'Dowd.

Livermore, 12th ranked last week, is the only other EBAL representative in the top 15.

San Ramon and Granada earned honorable mentions.

Cowboys face MV nemesis

Livermore High faces a precarious tuneup in EBAL soccer this afternoon, entertaining Monte Vista at 3.

In the other league contest, Granada is at Amador Valley.

The Cowboys need a victory to tie Dublin for first place in league standings with 10 points. Those two teams play Thursday, probably to decide the championship.

Livermore can't overlook Monte Vista however, which has won two and tied one this season. The Mustangs tied the Cowboys back on Dec. 5, 2-2. Monte Vista overcame a 2-0 halftime deficit.

Tri-Valley Club defeats Latinos

Tri-Valley Soccer Club played most of the match with a man advantage, and turned it into a 3-1 victory over the San Pablo Latinos Sunday in Pleasanton.

A San Pablo player was ejected at the 20 minute mark of the first half, and Tri-Valley leading, 1-0.

The teams tied at halftime, 1-1 but Tri-Valley struck twice in the second half. David Kessler and Mike Payne scored after the intermission.

George Meizi received credit for the first score when a Latino fullback guided the ball into his own net.

Ralph Wood and Ed Meyer teamed in the Tri-Valley goal for 11 saves. The Latinos were out-shot, 16-15. Tom Emmitt played

In Alliance competition, Tri-Valley beat the Latinos, 4-0. Hector Almazara scored twice, and Tim Smith and Harry Noel each had one score.

Livermore High School freshman Paula Ng qualified for the S.F. Examiner Games Indoor Track Meet with a 7.1 clocking in the 60-yard dash last weekend at San Jose State University.

Besides that, the fleet young sprinter qualified as a member of the Berkeley Track Club's 880 medley relay team.

She will enter both events at the Examiner Games Jan. 24 at the Cow Palace.

Paula's 7.1 60 time was six-tenths of a second off the women's world record. It was just a tenth off the fastest qualifying time at San Jose State.

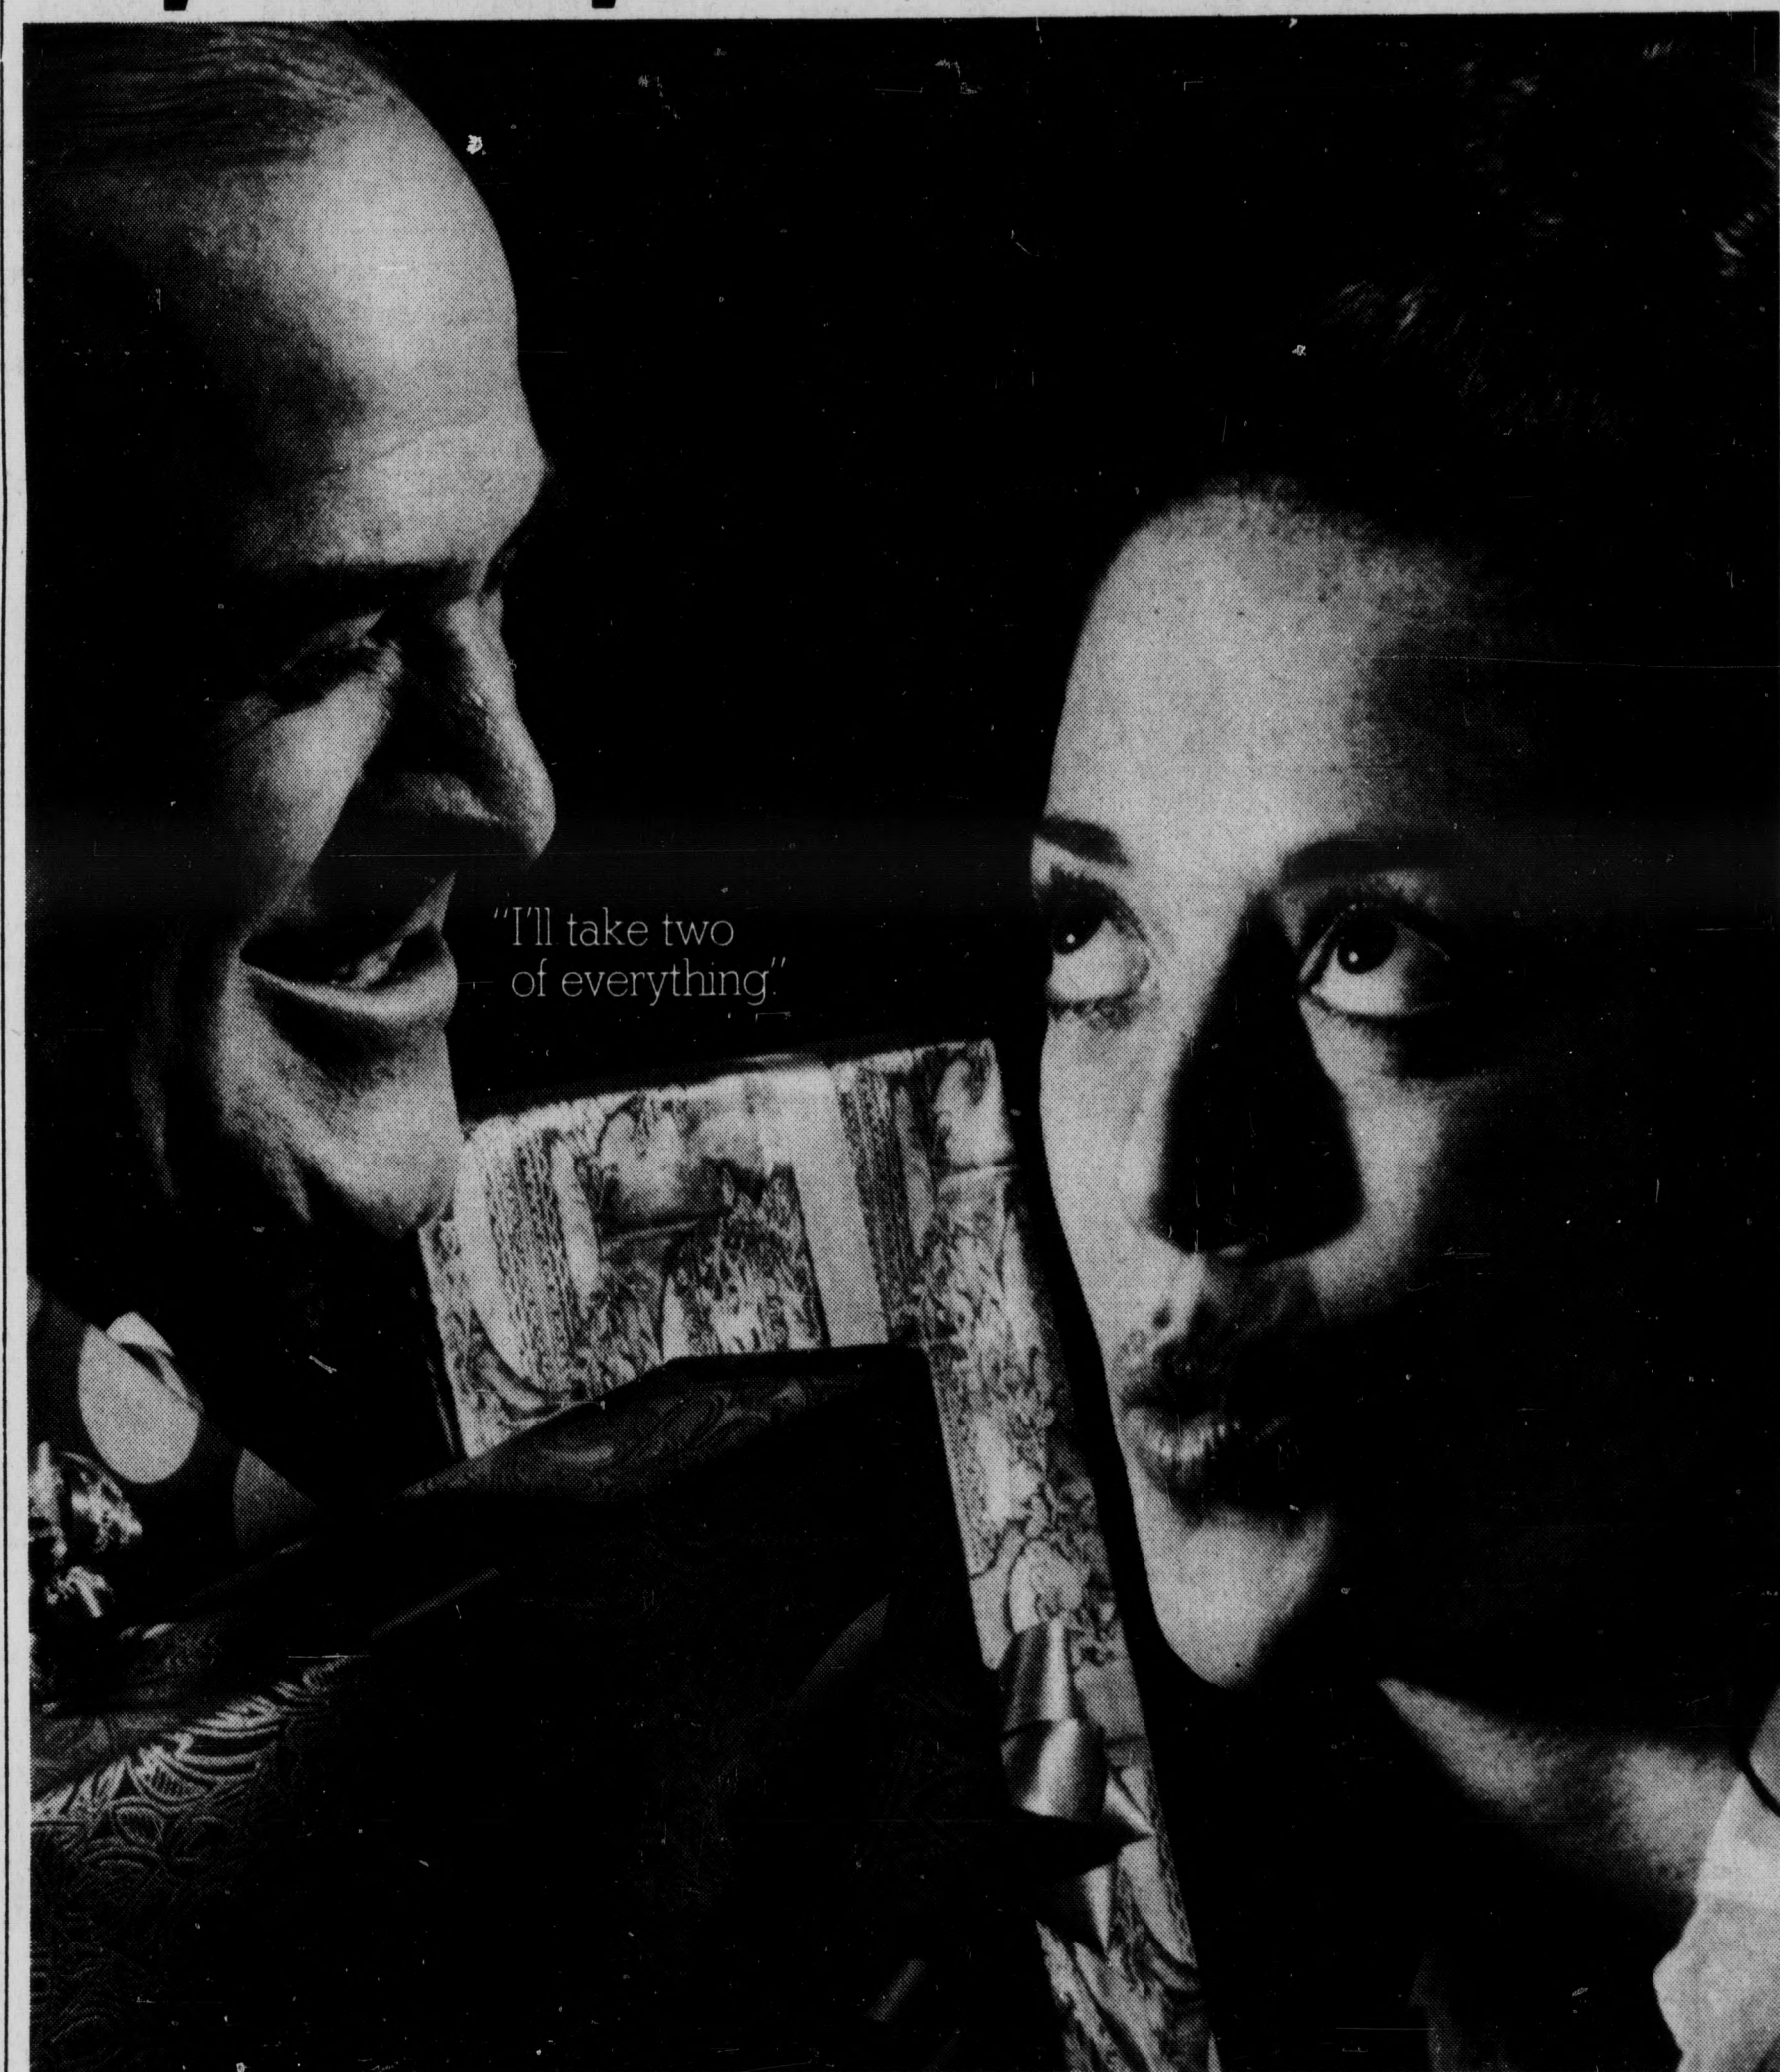

The Berkeley relay team posted the day's fastest time, a 1:47.3.

"My coach (Manuel Perry of Livermore) just told me to start working for this in December," Paula said. "I had no idea I would qualify for this. I just worked out with the Berkeley team a couple of times during Christmas vacation."

Paula has competed twice in Jr. Olympic competition. Her specialty are the dashes — she will run the 110 in the medley relay, but she also long jumps. "I may try the high jump this year too," Paulasays.

Seven women besides Paula qualified for the open class 60-yard dash.

7 WAYS TO KEEP WARMER, CHEAPER.

Because our costs for fuel have gone up, your fuel costs are higher this winter than last, too. But even with increased rates, you can still hold down your heating costs by decreasing your energy usage. Here are some practical "here's how's."

1. Set your furnace thermostat to a temperature of 68° or lower. Turn it down even more when you leave home or go to bed.

2. Keep all exterior doors tightly closed. This tip may sound simple, but you'd be amazed at how much energy and money goes out the door with the heat.

3. Drag out Aunt Lucy's homemade sweater. Remember the cable knit you thought was really knit out of cables? It can actually help at lower thermostat settings.

4. Clean or replace those dirty filters that make the furnace work harder than necessary to heat your home.

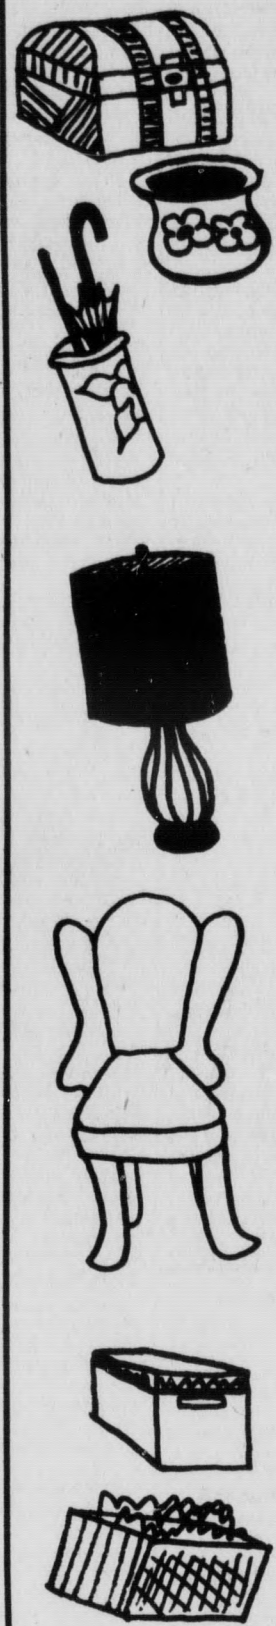

5. Open your draperies on sunny days. Let Mother Nature do the work for your furnace. At night and on cloudy days you can also stop up to 16% of the heat lost through the windows by closing the draperies over large glass areas.

6. Indulge your taste for "hotter" foods. You'll be amazed how much warmer you'll feel after a good, hot bowl of chicken soup. Or some such.

7. When you're not using the fireplace, close the damper. Why let your heat escape up a flue that can't appreciate it?
